Operations resume at Music City Central

NASHVILLE – This afternoon, a suspicious package was found on the lower level of Nashville MTA's Music City Central (MCC) bus station.

As a precaution, MCC was evacuated to assess the situation. Thanks to the immediate response by Nashville Metro Police Department and MCC's on-site security, the incident was quickly resolved and we were able to resume normal service for our passengers.

The matter is still under investigation and no further details are available at this time.
